THAT'S DIFFERENT

Russia is the nation that has been flagrantly offensive beyond
all others in sending emissaries
over here to tell us how to run this government. According to the Communists nothing is done right, and
our government should be junked
and supplanted by one with the Russ in control.

It happens we have muddled
along for quite a while without outside help and the chances are remote that we will be able to do so for quite some time to come. If there are defects in our form of government we have an orderly,
legal method to which we can resort to correct them. It is a certainty that we do not believe that Communism is a cure for any of the ills with which we are afflicted.

These offerings of gratuitous advice, breeders of trouble and noisome pestilences are paid propagandists. Although they believe, or profess to believe that they have the right to indulge in subversive activities, they are very touchy
when anything is said about the Soviet Republic. That it seems is different.

Robert Ripley of "Believe It Or Not" fame, who in the course of his travels about a year ago, visited Russia, said in a recent speech that the Soviet government had caused the death of 4,000,000 peasants by starvation and labeled the country as a "gigantic poorhouse."
He further declared the slights the ordinary tourist is allowed to see
are "phony props for the purpose
of propaganda."

Now Ripley has been informed that he never again will be permitted to enter Russia.

"I consider this high-handed action," Ripley said, "as I have never told or depicted anything, but the

Six Boys Are Held By Police In Cafe Thefts

Six Richmond boys, all 14-years-old, were certified to the juvenile court yesterday following their arrests on charges of theft.

The six were arrested after they allegedly broke a window in the cafeteria at the Roosevelt Junior High School and stole a quantity of candy and about $1.50 in cash.

The theft took place immediately
after a basketball game at the school.

Names of the boys were withheld
by police.

Seven Relatives Seek Will Break

REDWOOD CITY, March 13.—UP
Seven nieces and nephews of 84-year old William F. Turnbull filed a suit in the San Mateo county court today, charging that Miss Jeanne Condie, 34, used "wiles and manipulations" in "turning the head" of their uncle, who cut off relatives and bequeathed her an estate valued at $125,000.

According to the complaint, Miss Condie was "vicious and youthful," and succeeded in capturing the aged man's affections, then his affections, and influenced him
against members of his family.

The suit was filed by John L.
McNab, San Francisco attorney, Turnbull, a wealthy San Mateo
widower, died in January, 1935.

Martinez Phantom Burglar Captured

MARTINEZ, March 13.—Held as the phantom burglar who terrorized householders in this section
for two months, Theodore Wilson, 31, of Mt. View, was in custody today, claimed to have made confessions he looted 25 residences in Martinez, Avon and Concord and stole 14 automobiles.

The youth, said to be on parole
from the Preston school of industry, made his admissions to Chief of Police Charles Palmer and Traffic Patrolman R. H. Duke in confessions that extended over two hours early this morning.

New Trial Or Sentence For Mrs M'Cord Monday

FORD PLANT WORKER IS FEARED DEAD

Possibilities that the mysterious
"Michael Baronovich," former Bulgarian army officer, whom Jerme-Von Braun Selz confessed he killed and tossed into the bay near the San Mateo bridge was Michael Rubonovich, a former Richmond
Ford plant employee, was being investigated by authorities last night.

Richmond police revealed last night that Michael Rubonovich was employed at the local Ford plant
in 1934 during the time that Selz worked here, and that the two men were apparently acquainted.

HAS DISAPPEARED
Rubonovich was discharged on March 27, 1935, records at the local factory reveal. He gave his address at the employment office as 425
Edley street, San Francisco.

Last night police and newspapermen in San Francisco made an investigation of the address and found that the address given was that of an apartment hotel. Here it was learned that Rubonovich had checked out some time in March, 1935 and had not been seen since.

NO FORWARDING ADDRESS
The man left no forwarding address at the hotel and mail for him
has been received up until two weeks ago, investigators were told.
Selz, who said he killed "Baronovich" because he blackmailed him
to keep silent his knowledge of the murder of Mrs. Ada French Rice, former El Cerrito woman, told officials that he once brought Mrs.

Arthur Love Is Named Head Of Jobless Union

Arthur Love was elected president of the Public Works Unemployed Union last night at a business meeting of the organization
held at the W. O. W. hall.

Gus Sprecker was elected vice-president; Peter Hesser, recording secretary; Van Worth, financial secretary; Walter Hunt, organizing agent; Jack Page, sergeant-at-arms; E. K. Gillette and M. Multi-hapt, county delegates.

Installation of officers will be held in two weeks by the organization.

Reports of committee were heard
at last night's business meeting held under the direction of Lee Mason.

Water Plan To Go On The May Ballot

MARTINEZ, March 13.—Formal decision upon ordering an election
upon a proposal to form a central and eastern Contra Costa county water district is expected to be taken by the board of supervisors
next Wednesday morning.

At the conclusion yesterday afternoon of a hearing upon protests
against inclusion of certain properties in the district, the supervisors adjourned until Wednesday,
announcing that in the intervening period they will view properties if it is asked he excluded and may summon some persons to testify upon their exclusion petitions.
It was held probable that the board would order next Wednesday that the election upon formation of the district be held in conjunction with the May presidential primary ballot.

NAZIS WORRIED BY SANCTIONS THREAT; HITLER IS RECALLED

LONDON, Saturday, March 14.—UP—France informed Great Britain early today that she will compromise with Germany in the Rhineland crisis, sources close to the foreign office said.
However, France's price for this gesture, it was said, is Britain's pledge to participate in financial and economic sanctions against Germany in case German Chancellor Adolf Hitler rejects the compromise plan.

(Copyright 1936 by United Press)

The European crisis Friday:
LONDON—Great Britain strives for compromise in face of persistent French demands for sanctions against Germany;
deadlock of Locarno conferees narrowly averted on eve of League of Nations council meeting to indict Germany.

BERLIN—German troops, maneuvering in Rhineland, refute foreign reports Germany planning withdrawal of "symbolic" forces; government anxious lest Franco-Soviet bloc succeed in forcing League to approve punitive measures.

PARIS—French financial experts believe anti-German sanctions would be ineffective without American cooperation.

HITLER RECALLED
BERLIN, March 13.—UP—Fast
moving developments in the European crisis tonight caused Fuehrer Adolf Hitler to cancel his election campaign speaking tour and hasten
to Berlin for urgent conferences
with highest Nazi leaders.

DEADLOCK AVERTED
LONDON, March 13.—UP—Averting a threatened deadlock over the question of applying sanctions against Germany, the Locarno
treaty conferees neared agreement
tonight.

"A closer approximation of views,
was apparent after today's meeting," the British, French, Belgian and Italian delegates said in an official communique.

TO MEET TODAY
It announced the Locarno conferees will reconvene at 5 P. M.
Saturday.

The meeting will not delay opening of Saturday's League of Nations council session. But the session will be short and will adjourn
until Monday after formalities.

SANCTIONS REJECTED
Earlier, with threat of a deadlock
diplomatic quarters said Great Britain rejected French proposals to apply economic and financial sanctions against Germany.

France's sanctions suggestions met with British objections that such penalties easily could lead to war with Germany. Britain was unwilling to incur the risk.

In seemingly endless conversations the French persisted in their demand that Saturday's League
council meeting, which is expected to indict Germany for violating the

Carlson Put On Landon's Primary Slate

Dispatches from Los Angeles yesterday, naming a set of delegates, pledged to Governor Alf Landon of Kansas for the Republican nomination, disclosed the name of Thomas
M. Carlson, prominent local attorney, among the list.

The Landon slate will be entered in the May presidential primary. It is said to include conservatives, progressives, the younger element of the party and virtually all groups within the Republican party in this State. If successful, the slate is said to force delegates to

MILK PRICE INJUNCTION IS DEMANDED

Legal steps were taken yesterday to prevent a milk war
in this area. The move was initiated by the Contra Costa County Retail Grocers' Association, Contra Costa Milk Dealers' Association and William M. Lutz "for himself and for the benefit of all persons similarly situated."

The defendants are the Hag-strom's Food Stores, Inc., and four or five John Does, the listing of the Does only being a way of listing fictitious defendants.

A temporary restraining order was issued, made returnable next Tuesday at 2 o'clock
before Judge A. F. Bray. Bond was posted in the sum of $1, 000.

The action is brought under Section F of the State Fair Price Act
and seeks an injunction to prevent solicitation for the purchase of milk at a price less than sold by other stores, which in effect is an effort to prevent the advertising of milk at a less price than other dealers in the commodity. The law strange as it may seem, does not prohibit the sale of the commodity
at a cut price.

UNLAWFUL PRACTICES CITED
The complaint alleges that in marketing of milk, cream and dairy products the following methods of doing business, or trade practices,
are unlawful: "The solicitation of the business of any wholesale customer or consumer at a lower price
for milk of like quality and grade,
sold under like conditions of service, than such consumers are now

Female Attired Impulsive Lad Lands In Jail

That it takes all kind of people to make a world is exemplified in the case of Kenneth S. Van Trump,
an Oakland salesman, who is now
serving a term in the county jail.
Kenneth is peculiar—or something, the police believe.

His belief is based on the fact that when arrested in the early morning hours here on Twelfth street he was found by Officer Frank Fray to be wearing a plea-dured woolen skirt and a brassiere.

Asked for an explanation he told many conflicting tales, with the result that he was locked up for the balance of the hours of darkness.

Chief of Police Jones and Deputy District Attorney Homer Patterson also quizzed the girlish gentleman but made little progress in getting a slant on the reasons for arraying himself in feminine fancies.

Then Police Judge C. A. Odell
later took a hand in the puzzle. All he could elicit from the sweet thing
was that about every six months
he was seized with an irresistible
impulse to don the attire of the opposite sex. Asked what was the matter with him, Van Trump said
he did not know but would give a good deal to find out.

A suggestion from the court that Chief Jones might use Van Trump
as sort of a trusty around the city jail, was turned down cold, so the judge pronounced sentence of 90 days in the county jail on a charge of vagrancy, 80 of which were suspended. He is now a guest of Sheriff John A. Miller.

Home Planned For Aged And Penniless Men

MARTINEZ, March 13.—Provision of a county farm to care for approximately 40 aged men now housed at the county hospital and relieve congestion at the hospital is being considered again by the Contra Costa supervisors, it was disclosed today. The men for whom accommodations would be provided at Marsh Creek canyon under the plan
are aged and infirm but not ill.

Establishment of a county farm or home for these aged men was considered a year ago but was dropped because of the tax situation.
Chairman W. J. Buchanan said today, "We are considering it again.
If such a home was provided it would alleviate the crowded conditions at the hospital now."

It is not the intent of the officials that the men should be required to work, such as raising vegetables,
but belief was expressed many might voluntarily pursue gardening
if they had the opportunity.

Investigation of cost of required buildings is to be made before the supervisors begin the preparation of the budget in July.

Ask Clemency For Convicts

SAN FRANCISCO, March 13.—
UP—Attorneys for Joseph Kristy,
under sentence to hang this spring
for participation in a San Quentin prison break, today filed a brief
with the State Supreme court asking clemency.

A similar request was made in behalf of Alexander McKay, a British subject, convicted and sentenced with Kristy, by the British consul general in San Francisco several weeks ago.

JUDGE BRAY MUST MAKE HIS RULING

Another technical legal lap
of the McCord race was run in the court of Judge A. F. Bray yesterday, and as has been the case on several previous occasions, turned out to be a dead heat. The final and deciding lap of the race will occur next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Following arguments of attorneys for defense and prosecution, Judge Bray will then either grant a new trial or pronounce judgment on Mrs. Mc-Cord, on her conviction of having presented a false and fraudulent claim to J. H. Morrow, county purchasing agent, as under the law no further postponement for any reason can be granted.

LEGAL SEE-SAW
The case has been interesting
from many angles but none more so than the way it has seen-sawed back and forth from a legal standpoint, following the jury's verdict of guilty. Since then several court sessions have been held on the motion of the defense for a new trial.
On several occasions it looked as though the defense had the better
of the argument and just when it appeared that irrefutable points
had been presented the prosecution came back a few days later with questions and authorities which made defense look to their books
for answering and countervailing argument.

Attorney Healey had recovered his

Chickens And Feed Are Stolen By Thief Here

P. J. Halter, who resides at 3904
Fall avenue, is convinced that there is a thief in Richmond who is thorough, to say the least.

Last night Halter returned home
to discover that two of his prized
chickens were missing, the vic-

A few minutes later Halter discovered that in addition to stealing the chickens, the thief helped himself to a 100-pound sack of chicken feed for the two chickens.

Richmond police were asked to try to find the chickens and the feed.

STANFORD WINS FIRST CAGE TITLE CONTEST

Hastipass Has Tough Field To Race Against

Handicapper and Hi Boy, littermates by Major League Gypsy life are leaving it strictly up to their big brother, Hastipass, to crack into the win column tonight at El Cerrito dog track. Handicapper ran wide and finished third at Lucky Party and Chir Town, and Hi Boy ran out on their respective first starts for Red Holland's kennel last night, so the burden goes on Hastipass to win tonight against Try, Bayshore derby winner, Globe Trotter, Barney Mac, Big Butano and Sonny Montana in the special match which headlines the flossy El Cerrito card tonight.

The meeting of Try and Hastipass should be a real treat for racing fans because there have been lots of arguments over the relative speed of this pair.

Green Meadows and Just Meadows hooked up for a double contest of $35.00 last night at El Cerrito. Green Meadows was $22 preferred, but many liked the 3-5 combination.

HUSKIES ARE SWAMPED BY H. LUISETTI

SAN FRANCISCO, March 13.—UP—A spindly-legged, basket shooting sophomore, Angelo 'Hank' Luisetti, tonight ran up an amazing point total to lead Stanford University to a startling 60 to 29 victory over University of Washington in the first game of the Coast Conference basketball championship series.

Luisetti, storming up and down the courts to wrest the ball from Husky players and go driving down under the netting for shot after shot, accounted for 13 field goals and six free throws—a total of 32 points.

His amazing total was believed to be a new conference record for an individual score in a single contest. Earlier this season he collected 30 points in a single game and his total was accepted as a modern record.

Luisetti was all over the court, dashing in and out to shoot, dribble and feed the ball to his mates for set-up shots.

His brilliant showing rested in part on the surprising fact that Stanford controlled the center tip-off most of the contest. Coach John Dunn's boys who have used the southern division throw-in all season, were expected to have considerable difficulty handling such a tip-off rule.

The Stanford team, after its first conference title in 15 years, roared away from the opening whistle, piling up a 9 to 0 lead in the first four minutes and pulling out ahead, 12 to 2 before the Huskies could score a single field goal.

Coach Hec Edmundson's boys seemed nervous and tight as they struggled to bottle up Luisetti and get their own short passing attack functioning. Forward Ed Lovvick and Chet Wagner and Guard Bob Edge finally caught the range and Washington pulled up 12 to 15.

Luisetti began popping the ball from all angles however, and sank three field goals. Just before the half ended he lobbed a long one in and then crashed into the

Wife Shocked At Killing Of Bandit Husband

OAKLAND, March 13.—UP—Clarence R. Schoville, auto mechanic, slain by police last night in a campaign to stop grocery store support at the northern end of the court. For a moment he was groggy and it looked as though he might be lost for the contest. Eventually he clambered to his feet and got a free throw. From then on he and Stanford ran wild.

She was described by his wife today as "a good man" who repeatedly scoffed at the idea of anyone looking for an easy living.

The wife, Mrs. Valene Schoville, at first refused to believe her husband was implicated in a hold-up.

"Something must have snapped in his mind," she said.

Schoville was killed when he tried to obtain money at a high street store. Patrolman Arthur Goodwell, hiding behind a partition, stepped out and shot Schoville as he fled.

Mrs. Schoville said her husband left home last night saying he had a home-improvement job to attend to.

S. NELSON AIDS SANTA FE TO CAGE VICTORY

With Stan Nelson running wild a la Hank Luisetti, the Santa Fe basketball team went into the quarter finals of the county cage league last evening by walloping the Lasall club by a score of 52 to 31 at Martinez.

Next Thursday night at 8:30 the Railroaders will meet the strong Danville team and should they win will enter the finals of the league.

At half time the local boys were leading 18 to 10. Following the team's usual procedure in the second half, the boys tied down their hats, hung on to the seat and stepped on the gas. From then on it was murder in the first, second and third degrees.

As previously stated, Stanley Nelson was the fair-haired member of the Nelson family and the Santa Fe team. He piled up exactly 26 points to lead the scorers for the evening. Moitoza was second high with 10 points.

Bettencourt with 12 points and Van Ream with 10 were high men for the losers.

In the second game the Pittsburgh Phil-Six team scored an upset to defeat the Antioch club—which had four former St. Mary's stars in its lineup—by a score of 44 to 36. To cap the climax, the Phil-Six team finished the game with only four men in the lineup.

High School's Ballhawks Are Beaten Again

The Richmond high school baseball team was handed another defeat yesterday when the University High school squad of Oakland outscored the locals 6-3.

The visitors staged one big inning when a flock of errors and hits brought six men across the home plate.

After the one lead inning the local boys settled down and played baseball. But it was too late then.

Richmond got its first run in the first inning when Broadberg reached first on an error and stole second. Pippo doubled to score him.

Cecchi scored on Costa's single in the fifth inning, to be followed immediately after by Costa's score.

Mrs. Covington Granted Divorce By Reno Courts

RENO, March 13.—UP—Jean Bartlett Covington today was granted a divorce from William Covington, wealthy by hosiery manufacture, of South Carolina.

The hearing as held behind barred doors. Mrs. Covington charged cruelty.

The preliminary divorce proceedings were marked by a long battle over alimony and property settlement.

Lewis Winner Over McAvoy

NEW YORK, March 13.—UP—John Henry Lewis, six feet of brown lightning from Arizona, decisively outpointed Jack McAvoy, England's foremost boxing ambassador, in the first defense of his light-heavyweight crown tonight.

The former Arizona choir boy, first American Negro ever to hold the 175-pound title, captured 12 of the 15 rounds to receive the unanimous decision of the referee and two judges before a crowd of 13,000 in Madison Square Garden.

after Christopher had rapped out a double.

Edwards was on the mound for the locals and he allowed nine hits and struck out five men. Three errors were charged to the locals. Richmond got eleven bingles.

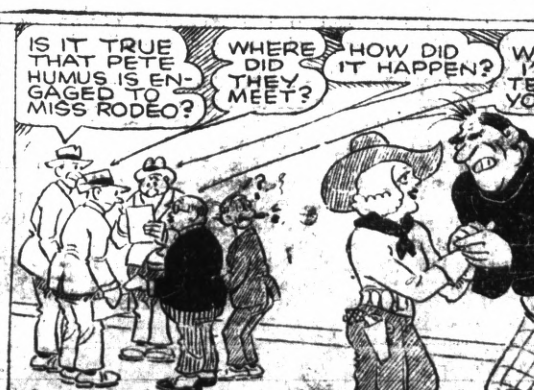

Vargas was behind the plate for Richmond; Cecchi was at left field, Broadberg at right; Christopher at center; Cassole at first; Rocha at short; Costa at second; Pippo at third and Edwards chucked.

Next Tuesday the local boys will meet Crockett here.

TWO STATES HARD HIT BY NEW FLOODS

BOSTON, March 13.—UP—Rising waters in ice-choked rivers brought new danger to Maine and New Hampshire tonight. Most other sections of flood-stricken New England experienced temporary relief through clearing skies and colder weather.

Seven persons already have perished. Property damage is running into the millions of dollars.

CONCORD ISOLATED
Chief concern was for residents along the Merrimack river valley. Concord, capital of New Hampshire, was isolated. Highway and railroad communications to the city were cut off.

In New Hampshire, National Guardsmen were called out to dynamite ice jams and warn valley residents in the event conditions became grave.

ROADS BLOCKED
In Maine, ice-floes and water pending over the banks of the Kennebec and Sabattus rivers blocked the main line of the Maine Central Railroad between Portland and Bangor via Augusta. The roaring Androscoggin river had closed the railroad's Rumford branch. Rail service between Ellsworth, Calais and Eastport was suspended.

Floods closed the main lines of the Boston and Maine Railroads' New Hampshire division between Concord and White River Junction, Vermont.

ELEVEN DEAD

MONTREAL, Canada, March 13.—UP—Floods and landslides in several parts of the province of Quebec today killed 11 persons, including eight children.

Five children were drowned when the St. Francis river overflowed and swept away their home at LaMartine.

Prepare Against Invasion

BRITISH PRECAUTIONARY measures in Egypt indicate fear of a possible invasion from the Italian provinces of Libya. Miles of barbed wire are reported in the desert on the outskirts of Alexandria. Above, an officer of the Cheshire regiment inspects the kits of his men before their departure for machine-gun training in the desert.

The last day for registering for the contest is March 21. Contestants may register in Richmond at McLackon's and in El Cerrito at the Louis E. Davis sporting goods store, 333 San Pablo avenue.

LEGION POST WILL SPONSOR BALL TEAM

The Louis Hagen Post, American Legion will have a baseball team this year it was learned yesterday and there will be a tryout this afternoon to pick candidates for the team.

A meeting was held at the Memorial building Thursday evening to canvass the baseball situation among El Cerrito juniors and it was determined to hold four tryout sessions preliminary to picking the team to represent the Post.

L. S. Thomas is chairman of the junior baseball committee of the Louis Hagen Post and is busy engaged in selecting ball players to form a winning team this season. Those who are interested in this afternoon's tryout may get in touch with the chairman at Richmond or call the Davis Sporting Goods Store, Berkeley 9498.

TROPHIES OFFERED IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT

An amateur tennis tournament is being sponsored by the Louis E. Davis sporting goods store to be held by the Contra Costa County recreation department.

There will be eight trophies awarded to four groups of contestants. The first group is for boys and girls under the age of fourteen years and a trophy will be awarded to the best boy and to the best girl player in this group. The second group comprises those between 11 and 16 years of age and the best boy and girl player in this group will each receive a trophy. The third group is for those 17 and over and the best player in this group will receive a trophy.

ROTARY TOLD OF Mountain Thrills

Doctor Robinson, prominent Oakland attorney, yesterday told members of the Richmond Rotary Club the thrills and dangers of mountain climbing.

Robinson related the story of his ascent last year of Mt. Waddington in Canada, which is one of the three largest glaciers in the world. He exhibited motion pictures of the climb.

Dr. Harry Ford presided over the meeting while W. T. Helms was chairman of the day.

SERVED IN ARMY

Selz was unable to tell officers the true name of the man he allegedly slew, then trussed up with baling wire, weighed the body with iron and tossed it into the bay. He said, however, that the man was a general in the Bulgarian army.

Police Inspector George Bengley who investigated the local angles of the case said last evening that he had discovered Rubonovich was a Russian and had served in the Russian army.

Since Rubonovich has completely disappeared, police of San Francisco and the San Mateo county sheriff's office are convinced that "Baronovich" and Rubonovich are the same person.

NEW MURDER SEEN REDWOOD CITY, March 13.—

UP Jerome Von Brum Selz, 28, tonight faced further questioning in San Quentin prison regarding a murder for which he received a life term yesterday.

A troubled wake of reports and new developments followed his consignment to San Quentin after a swift arraignment and guilty plea.

GIRLS MISSING
Neighbors who lived near Selz in Verdant Woodside Glen in the Santa Cruz mountains said that two girls had disappeared mysteriously after living with him.

Two women told Sheriff James J. McGrath and his deputies they were positive that Mrs. Ada French Rice, whom Selz confessed killing with a poker "about June 15, 1925" was alive in August of that year.

TO IDENTIFY BODY
Their statement sharpened efforts to identify positively a body dug from a shallow grave some miles from the Woodside Glen cottage.

Selz told officers the body was that of Mrs. Rice. To make certain that such was the case investigators today canvassed San Francisco dentists in an effort to identify dental work found on the body recovered. Mrs. Rice was known to have had extensive dental repairs and treatment.

A background of grisly mass murder possibilities clung to Selz despite his admission in San Quentin's ranks. Officers still were trying to locate the body of a man Selz identified as a "Bulgarian named Baronovich," and whom Selz said he killed, then threw into San Francisco bay from the San Mateo bridge.

NOT SO UNLUCKY

SAN FRANCISCO, March 13.—UP—Friday the 14th notwithstanding, Jack Rogers of Alameda and Frank Payne of San Francisco suffered only fractured heels when they fell 14 feet with a 3000-pound electrical marquee which slipped from its fastenings and crashed to the pavement.

Dr. Harry Ford presided over the meeting while W. T. Helms was chairman of the day.

Insurance Law Violators Will Face State Quiz

SAN FRANCISCO, March 13.—UP—Beginning of an intensive state-wide drive to compel employers in California to conform to the state compensation insurance laws was announced today by Timothy Reardon, industrial accident commissioner.

Reardon said that investigations have revealed 314 employers in the larger cities of the State operating in violation of the compensation insurance laws. All but 243 of these he said, have agreed to abide by the regulations.

Those who fail to conform, the commissioner said, will be cited to show cause.

A start was made today when four San Francisco roofing contractors were cited to appear before the San Francisco district attorney March 18 and explain their asserted negligence.

As rapidly as possible, Reardon said, similar treatment will be accorded other employers found to be violating the law.

PUBLIC ENEMY CAPTURED BY FEDERAL MEN

NEW YORK, March 13.—UP—Department of Justice agents bombed their way into a Brooklyn apartment today and found a frightened man, clad only in underwear, clinging to the ropes of a dumb waiter.

"Come on out of there or I'll shoot," yelled an agent.

The man swung down and crawled out into the room. Handcuffed, he looked around him. This was the man who had been in the room with Eddie Bentz, HUNTED ALMOST A YEAR.

"I guess you've been after me a long time," he said.

A long time was right—since May 24, 1935—Ever since little George Weyerhaeuser was kidnapped in Tacoma, Wash. Eddie Bentz—the man of 25 aliases, jail breaker, arrow of bank robbers, suspected kidnaper—was helped into his clothes and taken to the New York office of the Department of Justice.

PASTORS WILL BID FAREWELL
TO REV BISH

The farewell services of Rev. C. Meryl Bish will be held tomorrow at the Stege Presbyterian church, which he has served as pastor for the past six years. Rev. Bish entered the San Francisco Theological Seminary in October of 1929 and came to Richmond in March of 1930 where he preached his first sermon.

Rev. Bish said: "It is with the deepest and most sincere regret that we leave the Stege Church and the City of Richmond. The six years that we have spent here have been the happiest of our entire lives. But the field to which we go is much larger and offers greater opportunities and a far deeper challenge. We wish to thank all of those who have been so kind to us and who have inspired us to do greater things than we ever dreamed. It would be a joy to have them present for either of the services on Sunday in order that we may personally thank them and bid them goodbye."

Rev. and Mrs. Bish move on Wednesday to East Oakland, where they are to be in charge of the work at the Fruitvale Presbyterian church.

The service on Sunday morning at the Stege Presbyterian church at eleven o'clock is to be a communion service with a short message by the pastor. The choir is to sing two anthems. Following this service, a photograph is to be made outside the church of the entire congregation and friends. All members and friends are urged to be present for this.

The other service of the day will be the vesper service at five o'clock at which time all the ministers of Richmond are to be present with their congregations. Rev. Bish is to preach on "Think Ye On These Things." The choir of the church, directed by Mr. Clare Thomas, is to sing an anthem. A diat will be sung by Mrs. E. H. Gundry and Mrs. Alvin Gordon, while the ministerial quartette is to sing one number. The quartette is composed of Revs. J. Chester White, Hubert Doran, Marvin Stuart and J. Irving Rhoades, with Orval Averkamp as pianist. The scriptures will be read by Rev. Mokona, the invocation will be given by Rev. C. T. Horwell, the prayer will be given by Rev. Griffin.

Brief remarks will be made by Rev. Jos. Ten Broeck, president of the Ministerial Alliance.

A most cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend this vesper hour service which concludes the ministry of Rev. Bish in this city.

GUSTAV VASA
LUSTIG HOLDS
BUSY MEETING

Business of much importance to the lodge was transacted last evening when Richmond Lodge of Gustav Vasa met at the Memorial hall.

Mrs. Anna Jakobson presided over the session, which was devoted to studying changes in the by-laws and constitution of the organization.

Plans were made to attend the district meeting in San Francisco on March 28.

Hollywood
Film Shop

HOLLYWOOD, March 13.—UP—This cinema town is humming a new tune that seems to have caught the spirit of the inhabitants.

It is "Merle Cheri," a sophisticated waltz whose lilting melody has something of haunting qualities that provoke tapping toes and faraway looks.

In keeping with the best Hollywood success traditions, the melody was written by a young musician from a state that has contributed few stars to the film industry's Milky Way.

He is Edwin Pegram, slightly bald, short, broad shouldered pianist and organist from Bozeman, Mont., who came to Los Angeles and Hollywood with no job in sight but with melodies in his mind.

Pegram made the rounds of Hollywood celebrity spots. In one he auditioned an organ. The manager permitted him to play, not without fear that patrons would walk out.

They didn't. Before Pegram became virtually exhausted they were crowded four deep around the console pleading for more tunes.

In the group was another young man who had what he thought was a good lyric but he didn't know anything about music. He had tried to interest several composers in writing a tune but none appeared to have the time, or inclination, to fit a tune to the words written by unknown Lee Cooley.

Cooley was willing to grasp, figuratively, at a straw. He showed the lyric, scribbled on the backs of several envelopes, to Pegram. The next day there was a conference around the organ, and the strains of the new song pealed forth.

Then came the job of interesting "big names." They were hard to corral, but after they listened to the song they were enthusiastic.

Personal history of the composers equals that of the Hollywoodites who achieved almost overnight success.

Cooley is a tall slim chap who wears his long hair tossed back from a broad brow in a nonchalant manner. He is a former seaman and his favorite story is of an incident during the late Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith's first flight across the Pacific.

"I was lying flat on my back on the sheltering deck," he says. "The freighter was somewhere between Sydney, Australia, and San Pedro. Suddenly, I heard a roaring airplane. It was the Southern Cross. Sir Charles circled the ship three times and then headed into the west. If you want a thrill, you should have an airplane wake you from a sleep while you're in the middle of the Pacific."

The nimble fingers of Pegram play music according to his own system.

"I never received a lesson on the organ," he says.

Mooney Hearing
Is Halted By
Cunha's Aches

SAN FRANCISCO, March 13.—UP—Proceedings of Thomas J. Mooney's application for a writ of habeas corpus adjourned today until Monday when Edward J. Cunha, state witness, developed a toothache.

Cunha, a former San Francisco assistant district attorney, had been testifying for the third consecutive day when he was forced to leave the witness stand with the ailment.

Before proceedings were halted, Cunha related to the court the bitterness generated by the Mooney case at the time it was in progress in San Francisco following the Preparedness Day bombing which killed 10 persons and wounded 40.

KEEP TO THE RIGHT

There's safety and security in that little line that runs down the middle of the rural highway pavement. It is a veritable life line to motorists who will use it as they should.

Keep to the right and you will always be right. While this is true at all times, it is especially important as you approach a curve or the brow of a hill. Motorists coming from the opposite direction have a right to expect this of you.

Don't hold to the center of the road, even though the highway is deserted ahead. This practice, typical of the "Sunday driver," slows up traffic and causes accidents.

Riding the line is hogging the road. Don't be a road hog.

utter truth about any country in my travels.

"Apparently the Soviet government will not stand for the truth being told about conditions there. I am more disturbed than ever when I realize the United States permits Soviet propagandists to carry on their work here with the avowed purpose of destroying the American government.

"These propagandists exercise the right of entry and free speech, although they tell anything but the truth about our country or Russia. "No worse punishment could be inflicted on Communist crackpots shouting throughout this country of ours than to exile them to Russia—the Communist paradise—and make them live under the system they preach.

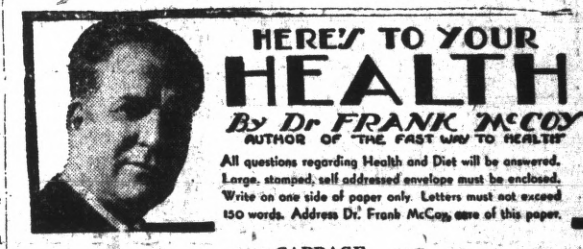

"The Communists delight in appealing to the unemployed of America by telling them there are no unemployed in Russia. "Believe it or not, neither are there any unemployed in a penitentiary.

"Everybody in Russia is a prisoner of the government. The working man has no choice about his work, or where he lives, or how much he is paid. He has no religion, no home life, no privacy. He has utterly no freedom of speech.

"You might remember this next time you hear one of our soapbox orators spouting forth, and bear in mind that if he attempted to open his mouth in Communist Russia, he would wake up to find himself either dead or on his way to Siberia."

It would seem to the ordinary man that it was high time for the government to be stepping in and taking a hand in the game by giving these Communist intruders a dose of their own medicine. If men like Ripley are barred from entering this country and deporting those who are perniciously active here, would be greeted with general acclaim. While this is a land of free speech it should not be allowed to become a country of destructive speech and action. And when a professed, known and recognized Communist is permitted to utilize the facilities of one of our great national broadcasting systems to advocate the overthrow of our government, it is time not only to call a halt but for drastic action of the government. CABBAGE

The plebian cabbage is one vegetable long familiar in the history of food. The ancient Egyptians, it is said, worshipped red cabbage, and among the Romans, cabbage is reported to have been widely used as a remedy for that "morning after" headache. One of the ambassadors to Europe during the world war sent back the statement that the English use only three vegetables and two of them are cabbage; and cabbage is still an esteemed and familiar vegetable in Germany. George Rector, famous chef, says that cabbage which has been boiled to death is one of the disgraces of a civilized nation.

The varieties of cabbage now cultivated are quite different from the wild cabbage which form the original type. The cabbage family numbers several members and all of the following belong to it: ordinary cabbage, or head cabbage; Brussels sprouts; cauliflower; broccoli; kale; Savoy cabbage, and kohlrabi.

When we think of cabbage we ordinarily think of the variety having a hard, round head, the outer leaves of which are green or red; however, in the original wild cabbage, the leaf buds are open and branched. In the Channel Islands, a special variety of open-leaved cabbage is highly prized. This unusual cabbage grows eight feet high and the stem is strong enough to be made into a firm walking-stick. These large central stems are also said to be used to support the thatched roof for the roofs of cottages by the Islanders.

The amount of cabbage consumed throughout the world is enormous. Of all vegetables, possibly, only the potato exceeds the cabbage in popularity. Indeed, in many parts of the world, cabbage is practically the only fresh vegetable obtainable throughout the entire year. As it may be used during the winter it has been called "winter greens."

While raw cabbage is a wholesome vegetable, the cooking process seems to cause cooked cabbage to produce flatulence in many people. However, by cooking the cabbage for a shorter time, it is likely to be less gas-forming and at the same time, will have a finer flavor.

When properly selected and eaten raw, cabbage provides a valuable bulk in the intestines and is rich in vitamins and food minerals; in selecting it, try to obtain a head which is as fresh as possible.

While I suggest that those with asthma, excessive gas, and heart disorders avoid the cooked cabbage, it may be used with good results by others, who desire to add it to the diet to provide variety when other green vegetables are out of season. The raw cabbage which is used finely shredded is also recommended inasmuch as it makes an appetizing salad.

Here are a few recipes for preparing cabbage:

FIVE MINUTE CABBAGE

First cut a head of cabbage into several pieces; then immerse in boiling water. Boil vigorously for not longer than five minutes and remove from the stove. Do not add salt until served. Season with butter. Prepared in this manner, cooked cabbage will have less than its usual gas-forming tendency.

CABBAGE AND RAISIN SALAD

To two parts of finely shredded cabbage, add one part of grated carrots and one part of seedless raisins. Pour over this mixture a dressing made by diluting peanut butter with cold water to the consistency of cream.

APPLE AND CABBAGE SALAD

To one small head of finely shredded cabbage, add a few chopped leaves of lettuce, two chopped apples and one-half cup of finely chopped celery. Mix together. Cream may be poured over the mixture, if a cream dressing is desired, allowing to stand fifteen minutes before serving.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

When Nervous, Pat Yourself on the Back and Be Thankful for Your Blessings

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.
I HAVE BEEN reading treatises by eminent practitioners, known by the high sounding titles of psychiatrists, neuro-pathologists, psycho-neurologists and the like. They use long and involved phrases to explain neurotic conflicts, suppressed desires, emotional instability. But you get the same sort of same reasoning from the country doctor who puts you on the back and says, "Tut! Tut! Quit wanting what you can't have. Crying won't get you anywhere!" The truth is there just the same. I have had a patient subject to violent bilious attacks, accompanied by extreme nausea and retching and followed by prostration. Invariably I found he had had a disagreement with his wife or she had done something that displeased him. Not even an exchange of words was needed to upset him so much that the nervous biliousness followed. He was as genuinely ill as if the cause of it had been a reasonable one.

DR. CHRISMAN

Many Offenses

After each one of a list of chronic headache sufferers on my books, I make a small notation indicating the particular offense which brings on the paroxysm of pain. It is a long list including disappointments, contradiction, failure to go somewhere, any cherished plan given up. And after those entirely personal reactions, the list adds fear, worry, grief, and finally the physical causes which are in the minority.

Many of the nervous disorders brought on by fear and anxiety were, we admit, implanted there by some shock or sorry experience for which others were responsible. Nervous fears are particularly traceable to childhood memories and experiences, many of which were not recognized at the time as likely to leave a permanent injury.

Not one of the types mentioned gets us away from the fact that only the sufferer himself can solve the problem; only when he accepts such help as we can give him, faces the situation and analyzes it to its source. When the trouble lies in disorder, the solution is to restore order. When it is people who make you nervous, give yourself sufficient time alone to store up reserve force.

Don't avoid people but try to find a reason for being glad to see them. If you grow irritable and exacting over not getting what you want, suppose you think of some of the things you have or experience that made you feel rich. The world is so full of compensations that there are few deprivations worth worrying about.

The "Precipitating Causes"

There are, to be sure, what the profession calls "precipitating causes" for nervous disorders that are physical in their origin and results. Among these we note prolonged activity, either mental or physical to the point of exhaustion, alcoholic indulgence, various infections, great anxiety or emotional shock.

A great many upsets being as mental or psychic and result in physical distress. We never discount the fear or shock that turns the face pale or makes the mouth dry. Many people suffer almost immediate bowel or kidney disturbance when suddenly frightened.

The sympathetic nervous system is acutely capable of responding to such as fear, worry or anger, that in laboratories like that of Dr. Crile in Cleveland, the physical results have actually been measured.

When it comes to giving medicine for nervous troubles, only those are really curative whose chemistry produces such actual combinations with the chemistry of the body as bring about a definite change. Of sedatives and hypnotics there are many but they must be chosen with the greatest care. It is seldom their use can be left to the discretion of the patient. Rest and sleep are imperative but to induce them by means of drugs is not always the best way.

Short Cuts

For gas range economy, don't leave a burner lighted when you intend to use it again later. Matches are cheaper than fuel.

If steeped coffee is made it should be served once, as it becomes bitter if allowed to stand.

When laying carpet in a narrow hallway or in a small room, lay it from wall to wall for an impression of space.

Light colored walls give a small room the impression of more air and space.

A badly stained tile floor may be restored with the use of a little muriatic acid or some mild abrasive. Remember to wash off with soap and water immediately after mousing.

Pete Bostwick Will Try It Again

By TALBOT LAKE

THERE WERE only six jumps left for the apparent winner of the Grand National steeplechase at Aintree, England, last year. It seemed like an easy victory for the American, George H. (Pete) Bostwick, leading by a full turn around the course. Then Fate made a quick move on her checkerboard. Castle Irwell, the mount on which Bostwick rode, stumbled, and Bostwick was out of it while the field thundered by.

That fall might have knocked the wind out of Bostwick, widely known polo star and gentleman steeplechaser, but not the courage. He's going to try it again on March 27, and he's going to ride the same horse, Castle Irwell. He left New York aboard an ocean liner the other day, and his hopes were high.

Now the Grand National course is, according to Bostwick, the most difficult in the world. Its most famous jump, Becher's Brook, takes its name from a jockey who, upon suffering a spill at that point, decided the best method to avoid death under the heels of the following horses was to remain submerged in the water until the field went by. Just how difficult the course appears is summed up by Bostwick:

"I don't believe there is one horse in fifty that could be schooled over the course. I know that many owners and trainers have built jumps to conform to those in the Grand National and have sought in vain to send their mounts over them in schooling drills."

But Pete has been studying the course pretty thoroughly since last year. He has walked over it at least ten times, considering its problems and plotting his racing strategy. He has found points where he believes, if you send your mount over it on a slant you can save probably three lengths.

That's the sort of strategist he is. Otherwise, he weighs 122 pounds, and has been keeping in condition at Aiken, S. C., through riding, polo, golf and court tennis. As a preliminary to his big test, when he hopes to bring the British prize to America, he plans to ride in other English races, including those at Lingfield Park, Cheltenham, Hurst Park and at the Imperial Cup races at Sandown on March 26.

Guide to Charm

Freshen Eye Areas As a Beauty Aid

By JACQUELINE HUNT

BEAUTY ENEMY No. 1 might be described as tired, lined eyes. Since youth fades first from the delicate areas around the eyes, when they are neglected, it would seem well worth your while to give those areas a little special care to retain your freshness and beauty as long as possible.

The smart little bats we like to wear are little or no protection to the eyes. Blustery March weather, changes of light or even of mood, and nervous fatigue all leave their imprint on the eyes. It is easy to understand why the eyes are first to succumb to tiredness, puffiness and wrinkles when you remember that the skin around them is more sensitive and has fewer oil glands than the rest of the face.

There are various creams scientifically blended to restore the precious oils depleted by strain, weather and time. This treatment has a most gratifying effect on crows' feet, wrinkles, puffiness or hollows under the eyes.

Using it once or twice a week—along with eye exercises—will do wonders to restore youth and brilliance to your eyes.

Here are simple exercises for tired eyes:

1. Sit comfortably erect, feet on the ground. Now follow a large, imaginary circle on the wall. Let the eyes follow slowly around this circle ten times, keeping your head entirely still.

2. Open the eyes very wide and count five; then relax the muscles for another count of five. Repeat the entire exercise five times.

3. Cup the hands, keeping the fingers tightly together to shut out all light. Hold the cupped hands over the closed eyes five minutes. Do this several times a day, especially when you are doing work like sewing, reading or typing that calls for close attention.

When puffiness or tired hollows under the eyes do not respond quickly to the exercises and regular care, you should look for some physical irregularity. Nervous fatigue or the need for glasses might also be the basic causes for eye troubles.

Beauty Tips

New York—Collar lines seem to have taken their cue from waistlines in having their ups and downs. The relative value of the high and low waistline is an old story, because there is a divided mind among the haute couture as to where the waistline should be. Molyneux, whose collection is successful enough to be significant, holds to the lower line, and has many followers. Schiaparelli, who is high prissies to so many, sponsors the higher line. Vionnet, whose word is often law, seems to be of the same mind about them, some of her clothes having a vague Dircotone suggestion.

In the meantime my guess is it will be with waistlines as it is with necklines—women will wear one or both if, as, and when the spirit and the occasion suggests.

Granting that spring is no season in which to take kindly to being ruffled to the chin, the fact remains that, thanks to the so-called Margo influence, such promises to be our fate.

Modes and Manners

QUESTION: "How should I eat foods which may be fat, either with a spoon or fork?" —B.B."

ANSWER: The rule of etiquette here is never use a spoon where fork can do adequate service. The spoon is an infantile table implement, and as we grow up should be able to eat with grace in an adult manner.

QUESTION: "Please give some pointers on finger bowl etiquette." —W.C."

ANSWER: A finger bowl may be employed after dinner or after fruit course. Tepid water is used. The bowl is placed on a separate plate, usually over a small doily. Only the fingers are dipped in the water. This is done one hand at a time. Dipping is with a napkin.

QUESTION: "When introducing a younger and older man, who is mentioned first? When both men are of similar age, who does one go about?" —D.P."

ANSWER: A younger person should always be presented to an older one. This means that the older one's name has to be mentioned first in the introduction. "Mr. Jones, this is Mr. Smith. When two persons are of approximately the same age, it does not matter which one's name is mentioned first.

Lace for Sportswear

Spring Contradictions Foreseen In Waistlines

Granting that spring is no season in which to take kindly to being ruffled to the chin, the fact remains that, thanks to the so-called Margo influence, such promises to be our fate.

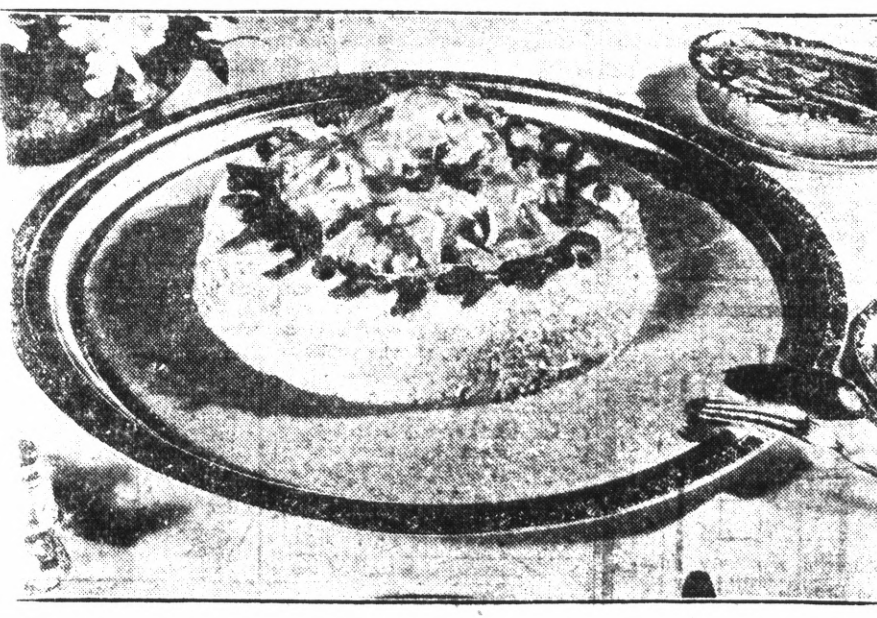

Margot, in case you have forgotten, is a play running in Paris the costumes of which have had a pronounced influence on fashions, even affecting those shown at the openings, which may be said to be just over.

Among the Margot-inspired fashions is the ruche, which certainly introduces a new neckline, and one which is a decided contradiction to the majority.

Most women will, I am sure, rejoice in the fact that there is, so to speak, the masculine and feminine in neckwear. This enables them to wear Ascots, scout handkerchiefs and such things—Margot ruches too, not to mention Medici collars.

Is it possible for you to visualize a spring which comes to us with flowers in one hand and veils and neck ruches in the other? Such, in spite of all this talk of masculine fashions, is the spring, which delights in the contradictions and inconsistencies.

CURRY OF CHICKEN BY OSCAR

RECIPE: 2½ pounds sliced cooked chicken, 2 chopped onions, 1 tablespoon curry powder, 1 tablespoon flour, 2 quarts chicken stock, 1 cup heavy cream, ½ cup shredded coconut, 2 cups rice, 1 ounce butter. Mix chicken with six ounces of warmed butter, the curry and flour and one-half the chopped onions. Season and add one quart of the chicken stock. Cook eight minutes; add the shredded coconut and boil for two minutes. Pour in heavy cream. In a second pan, place remaining warmed butter and onions. Add rice and cook two minutes. Pour in balance of chicken stock in a medium oven for twenty minutes. Mold rice as above, placing chicken in middle with onion on top. Decorate with chutney and raisins. Serve rest of sauce in platter. (Waldorf-Astoria recipe.)

Lent Brings Unique Uses Of Sardines

By JUDITH WILSON

THE Lenten season gives you a grand opportunity to find out something about the many varieties of tinned, smoked and salted fish. Sardines, seldom served except as they come, with crackers and beer or as a picnic snack, can be made into appetizing and substantial main dishes.

Sardines are moderate in price, whether you buy the big, meaty fellows from Maine or California or those imported from France, Portugal or Norway.

Italian Sardines
Chop 1 onion, and ¼ green pepper very fine and saute until delicately brown in 2 tablespoons of mixed oil and butter. A clove of finely minced garlic may be added if you like the flavor. Add 2½ cups strained canned tomatoes, a few grains pepper, ¼ teaspoon salt and 2 teaspoons sugar. Cook 10 minutes to evaporate the excess liquid.

Make a pastry by sifting together 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder and ¼ teaspoon salt. Cut in 2 tablespoons shortening and add enough milk to make a very soft dough—about 2½ cups. Pat out to ½ inch thickness on a greased baking sheet. Cover with chopped sardines and the tomato sauce. Bake in a hot oven 25 to 30 minutes. Sprinkle liberally with Parmesan cheese just before removing from the oven.

Sardine Appetizers
For an interesting first course, toast 4 slices of bread lightly, brush with butter and cut into 4 tiny triangles. Sprinkle the little triangles with ½ cup grated American cheese and place a tiny sardine from a freshly opened tin across each triangle. Sprinkle lightly with 1 teaspoon grated onion and paprika. Heat quickly under a broiler flame until the cheese is melted and puffy and the sardines hot. Serve 4 of the triangles on each plate with a garnish of cucumber slices on a small lettuce leaf.

Macaroni and Sardines
Cook 1 package of elbow macaroni in boiling, salted water until tender. Rinse in hot water, drain and arrange on a deep platter. Dress liberally with butter and immediately before serving arrange big California sardines, that have been broiled until thoroughly hot and light brown, over the macaroni. Garnish with wedges of tomato and sprigs of parsley.

Sardine Rarbit
Make a rarebit mixture by this recipe: Melt 1 tablespoon butter in the top of a double boiler. Blend in 1 tablespoon flour, add 1 cup milk and stir until thick and smooth. Season well with salt, pepper and about ¼ teaspoon of powdered mustard. Add ½ pound American cheese that has been grated and stir until smooth. Pour over slices of buttered toast and top with broiled sardines.

MODERN WOMEN

Men Who've Been Around Often Settle Down To Make Grand Husbands

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

IF ANYONE thinks the answer to the following letter is obvious, I beg to disagree. It seems to be popularly supposed that dull husbands are the best kind; I can't just see why dullness is an asset or that it guarantees a comfortable existence.

A spirited woman harnessed to a dull man has my sympathy. He isn't necessarily a good man because he is a dull one. A spirited man, attractive to other women, provides excellent material. He need not necessarily be a Don Juan because the ladies persist in viewing him in a romantic light. He may be the best sort of companion and a first class husband, even though he is not blind 40 the show that a very steady-going man, any girl who has to make a decision between a dull man and an attractive one, I am only going to say, "know thyself!" Men of either temperament are unknown quantities. You can't really know about either until each has reacted to marriage—and to you.

You and Your Child
Child Will Mistrust Idle Promises
By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

"MAY I go over to Tommy's after lunch, mother?" Mother did not answer at once. Either she was busy and did not hear, or else, not wishing to be disturbed, she pretended not to hear. "Mother!"

Walter said impatiently. "Yes, yes, What is it?" "May I go over to Tommy's after lunch?" "I'll see about it," Mother returned to her work relieved. Was that all he wanted? She nodded her head. "O f course, you may."

It was Saturday. The morning wore on uneventfully. Walter amused himself studying the ads and illustrations in magazines. From time to time he paused to listen to the wind howling outside. Or he went to the window to see the trees bending under the wind and the rain. He escaped boredom only through being sustained by the thought that he would be able to play with Tommy in the afternoon.

Walter sat down to lunch in high spirits. He ate everything set before him even the liver which he does not care for ordinarily. "Well," he announced, as he folded up his napkin. "Now I can go to Tommy's." "It's a miserable day. You can't go out, Walter. Do you want to get pneumonia?" "But you said I could go after lunch, mother." "Did I?"

Was mother evading the issue with that question? "I don't remember saying that. But if I did, it is certain now that you're not going out in such weather. Don't argue with me, Walter." "You always say you'll let me do things and then you don't," the boy remarked bitterly. "I have a right to change my mind," mother replied.

Maybe so. But promises should not be made idly, and as though they concerned the present only. Promises must be kept. Otherwise a child loses confidence in his parent and ceases to have respect for him. That's why a wise parent says "We'll see" when there is any doubt of being able to carry out his promise. Or says, "You may go to Tommy's if the weather changes."

bread can be served with soup or salads or along with well-chilled tomato juice cocktails. Take a loaf of crusty French or Italian bread and slice it at intervals not quite all the way through. Butter each slice on both sides with butter that has been creamed with a very few thin slices of garlic.

Choose for Yourself
It seems to me he deserves a better fate than that. It would be far kinder to let him go now than to leave him flat later.

You may be the sort of woman only interested in a man other women find attractive. Perhaps you demand the stimulation such a situation gives.

I could go on indefinitely in this strain. But the point I want to make is that the answer to your problem lies within yourself. It should be determined by your own desire.

Without wishing to be cynical, I feel bound to warn you that no matter which of the two you will be times in which you will wish you had chosen the other. Try to find out what you yourself want of life, particularly of marriage, and then, after careful deliberation, marry the one who has most of the qualities you feel will be necessary to come within a mile of bringing what you want.

Mrs. Martin will be glad to answer in this column questions of general interest. Mrs. Martin is not a professional writer. Names will not be published. Address her care of this paper.

Cooking Lightens Fowl

When the head and feet are removed from fowl and it is drawn, about one-sixth of its weight is lost. Also the fat and moisture absorbed in cooking are lost, so that about one-third of the weight of a live bird is gone by the time it is prepared and cooked and ready for serving.

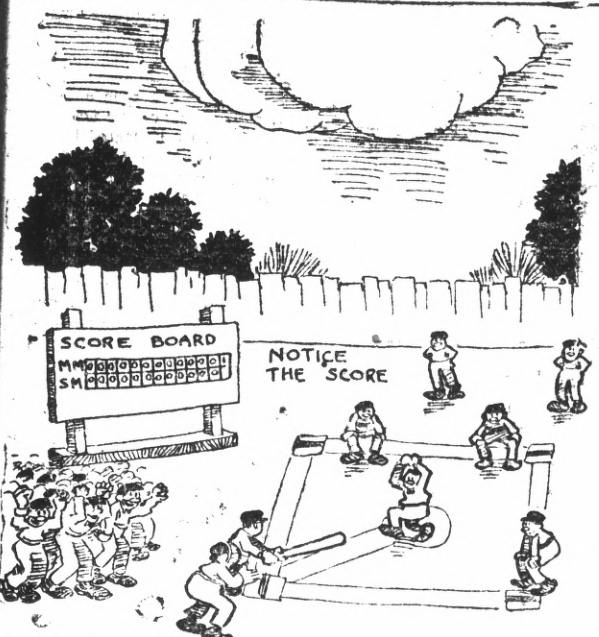

IT'S SIMPLY INEXCUSABLE

Why cannot expect to make friends socially or in business if you have halitosis (bad breath). Since you cannot detect it yourself, the one way of making sure you do not offend is to gorge often with Listerine. It instantly destroys odors, improves mouth hygiene and checks infection. Soldier Badly Injured As Big Charge Explodes

MUOCH, Calif., March 13.—(UP)—A charge of flashlight powder capable of 500,000,000 candlepower illumination, dropped on a dry lake in army air maneuvers here, exploded accidentally today, critically burning Corporal Louis U. Didas of March Field, Calif.
Didas attempted to ignite the unexploded charge of illuminating powder. It exploded prematurely, scorching his body and legs. He was rushed by air ambulance to March Field, near Riverside, Calif.
Lieutenant Kenneth B. Hobson, commanding the 23d photo section, credited the flashlight cream dropped in an effort to get a night photograph of Merced Dry Lake.

Bray said would be conclusive in favor of the prosecution (which would mean the denial of a new trial) unless Attorneys Carlson, Collins and Wight could successfully combat it. There were other points advanced by Healey, but the court failed to be impressed by them.

HUMOROUS NOTE

Carlson in arguing in rebuttal on the question of the custom and practice of the purchasing agent in cashing claims for all county officers, said that fact did not make the practice legal. "You might as well argue," he said, "that these numerous burglaries by the phantom burglar in this city would not constitute an offense, because he had perpetrated 50 of them. I hardly think the district attorney, if the man was brought to trial, would take the view that custom in such a case made his offense legal."

"Here is one person who would not," interjected Judge Bray, "as my house was the first one he entered."

HEALEY PRESENTS ARGUMENT

District Attorney Healey in opening his argument in opposing the motion for the new trial claimed that the affidavit of Carlson in averring new evidence had been discovered, should not be considered as there were three attorneys for the defendant, the resolution creating the revolving fund and the limitations placed upon it, had been a matter of record for years and was available at all times to the defense.

He presented affidavits by himself, W. J. Buchanan, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, D. M. Teeter, county auditor and J. H. Morrow, purchasing agent, all of which outlined the procedure in paying claims from the revolving fund and the practice that has been in vogue in the use of the fund ever since its creation. Teeter's affidavit, in addition, set forth the dictum that the word "services" as used in the resolution creating the revolving fund practically included every kind of service rendered in behalf of the county.

"It has been the practice and custom," said Healey, "for many years to pay such claims as the McCord claim out of the revolving fund. The defense, has by stipulation admitted the method of procedure in filing claims. This revolving fund has been used by all county officers and such has been the practice."

The contention of the defense has been that as the revolving fund was limited in its payments to items for "services and materials," the claim presented by Mrs. McCord for "cash advanced" to Mrs. Ida Jackson for expenses of trip to Colorado did not fall within the limitations imposed, was therefore not a legal claim; Morrow had no right to pay it, and its presentation to him by Mrs. McCord was not an offense under the section of the criminal code on which she was indicted.

Healey yesterday contended that the word "services" was all-inclusive in its meaning and practically embraced any act by an officer in behalf of the county. He quoted Webster's definition of the word as "duties performed in or appropriate to any office," and endeavored to show by accounting methods it could be divided and subdivided into many parts.

He then read Arizona and Utah decisions. The Utah decision, however, was the one to which the court gave weight. In effect it held under a section of that State's penal code, which is almost word for word the same as the California statute, that if an intent to defraud the county out of money was shown it did not matter as to the manner of the presentation of the claim, to what officer presented or how it was paid, it would have no bearing but the defendant would be guilty.

Judge Bray openly expressed the opinion that the Utah case was on all fours with the one at bar and unless contrary authorities to the principle laid down, were shown by the defense, the motion for the new trial would be denied.

CARLSON'S ARGUMENT

Attorney Carlson only briefly replied to the prosecution's contentions, saying that the resolution of the supervisors specifically limited the character of claims that could be met out of the revolving fund and that the claim of Mrs. McCord did not fall in the two categories. That all other claims were paid by the county treasurer and that is the reason for the existence of that office.

"The claim presented to U. H. Morrow was for cash advanced for expenses to Moffat, Colorado of Mrs. Ida Jackson," said Attorney Carlson.

"It was the theory of the prosecution and believed by the jury that tried the defendant, that the claim paid by J. H. Morrow was false because no cash was actually advanced to Mrs. Jackson. The elderly lady was called as a witness solely for that purpose and the case was successfully argued on that basis."

"To allow the prosecution on this motion for a new trial to now contend that the claim was for services is to permit the prosecution to change its whole theory to fit its own contentions. If the claim can be thus changed so that it reads 'for services in connection with the expenses to Moffat Colorado of Mrs. Ida Jackson' the prosecution is admitting that the claim was not false and that Mrs. McCord should be acquitted."

The purpose for which the revolving fund was set up, as shown by the resolution of the Board of Supervisors, does not permit of the interpretation desired by the prosecution. This fund was established to pay wage claims and to pay for materials furnished to the county, was not within the contemplation of the Board of Supervisors, nor within the act of the Legislature permitting the creation of the revolving fund that any officer had a right to pay for either services or materials and then seek reimbursement, except as to the officer in whose favor the fund was created.

The distinction between cash advanced for services and a claim for services is one that is recognized by the law. For example, under Section 690, subdivision 1 of the Code of Civil Procedure, the earnings of a married man are subject to execution or attachment for necessities of life. Thus a doctor may sue and attach wages for his bill. However, if the married man goes to the bank and borrows the money to pay the doctor bill, the bank although having advanced cash to pay for necessary services cannot attach or levy execution against the salary of its debtor.

"Furthermore, in the instant case the railroad company performed the service of transporting Mrs. Jackson to Moffat, Colorado and no service was rendered by either Mrs. Booth or Mrs. McCord in that regard. They were in the same position as a bank is in, in making a loan. "Finally, if a judgment debtor should loan, say $1000, to someone and after he had received payment would contend that such $1000 was exempt from execution because it was for services, the court would very appropriately and quickly tell him that such a transaction was a loan and not for personal services. The same reasoning is applicable in the instant case."

"Section 4041.2 of the Political Code, says that under such limitations and restrictions as are prescribed by law the Boards of Supervisors shall have the jurisdiction and power to establish such other county funds as they may deem necessary for the proper transaction of the business of the county and to transfer monies from one fund to another as the public interest may require."

"Section 1101, Subdivision 6, provides that the treasurer must disburse the county monies and all other moneys placed in his custody by official authority only on county warrants issued by the County Auditor. Subdivision 7 provides to disburse the monies in the treasury on such warrants only when they are based on orders of the Supervisors or upon order of the Superior Court or as otherwise provided by law."

"The establishment of different county funds as provided in the first mentioned section of the Political Code is for the purpose of convenience in conducting the business of the county. There is no provision in that section, or in any other section, provided in the Political Code, for the creation of a fund which may be disbursed by the county purchasing agent or any other county officer, save and except the county treasurer."

GOES OVER

In accordance with the previous ruling that time would be given the defense to offer rebuttal authorities to those which might be presented by the prosecution yesterday, adjournment was taken until next Monday at 2 o'clock for that purpose.

ATTENDANCE IS SMALL

As a drawing card the case has lost its savor, the crowds having been steadily decreasing in numbers since the sage of argument on the motion for a new trial was reached. There was only a small attendance yesterday afternoon, not more than 25, in addition to counsel, judge, court attaches and newspapermen.

The public generally is not interested in technical points of law, and what is more, being without legal training cannot understand them, when expounded by the attorneys. This fact in itself may account for the diminished attendance. However, next Monday, when sentence is pronounced, it is anticipated every seat will be occupied.

The defendant shows the signs of mental stress, incident to the trial and subsequent proceedings. She acts in the same marked nervousness which characterized her demeanor during the time her guilt or innocence was being weighed by nine of her own sex and three men.

Drowned Body Antioch Boy Is Found In River

ANTIOCH, March 12.—UP—A body found floating in the Sacramento river near Pittsburg today was identified tonight as that of Jerry Guadagna, 16 year old Antioch high school boy.

The body was identified by the youth's father, Frank Guadagna, through a driver's license, a pencil and a fountain pen in the water-soaked clothes.

The boy was one of four high school students who drowned January 5 when their small skiff capsized 100 yards off the Antioch dock. They were returning from a hunting expedition to West Island.

Discovery of the body was made by two farm workers. The condition of the corpse made positive identification impossible immediately.

paying competitors."

PRICE IS CUT

It is further charged that the defendants are violating the section of the law above quoted by selling the business of consumers at a lower price for milk of like quality and grade, sold under like conditions of service than such consumers are now paying competitors in the territory involved, known as the Alameda County Sales Area, which includes the cities of Oakland, Berkeley, Richmond, El Cerrito, Albany, Alameda, San Leandro, Hayward and Piedmont.

That grocery stores have been selling milk at 10 cents a quart but that on the 13th of March, 1936, the defendants offered milk at 9 cents a quart, or three quarts for 25 cents.

FEAR PRICE WAR

That the breaking down of the retail price of this food product, in which the public has such a large interest can result only in a chaotic condition causing irreparable loss and damage to producers, distributors, consumers and the general public, for which none could have an adequate remedy, if permitted to continue offering and solicitation of milk sales at reduced prices.

That a milk war will inevitably follow and independent stores will be forced to cut prices and wholesalers and distributors the same.

That the acts and threatened acts are in violation of the laws of the State of California.

New Strike By Fresno Pupils Is Threatened

FRESNO, March 13.—UP—A new walk-out at Edison technical high school was predicted by student leaders tonight following refusal of the board of education to meet with spokesmen for the 500 students who last Wednesday refused to attend classes unless W. L. Potts is removed as principal.

The striking students were persuaded by parents and the school board to return to classes yesterday but the board has refused to hear their grievances until they make up the day's absence by overtime work.

LONDON, March 13.—UP—United States absence from the League of Nations today experts worried with the problem of applying proposed sanctions against Germany. After spending the day studying the effect of possible economic and financial sanctions against Germany, the experts concluded that, as with the case of sanctions against Italy, the United States holds the key to the lock-up of the Reich with embargoes.

body after he discovered it in their Stanford campus home, Memorial Day, 1933.

REOPENS MONDAY

Prior to his appearance Dr. A. W. Meyer closed the State's rebuttal case by saying that it would have been impossible for Mrs. Lamson to have received her injuries by a fall. Her brother, Frank Thorpe of Lamar, Mo., had testified that she was five feet, five inches tall. His statement apparently was intended to cast doubt on the theory that Mrs. Lamson could have fractured her skull in a fall from her own height. The trial was adjourned until Monday after defense counsel Leo R. Friedman announced that he would close his case at that time with testimony of two Sonora, Calif. witnesses. He indicated they would testify that Paul Lehman, mining engineer, was in Sacramento in December, 1932.
